

VMC 2006 Annual Meeting
Monday, October 30, 2006

sts, Parks & Recreation – The University of Vermont – USDA Green Mountain National Forest
LOCATION: Billings North Lounge, University of Vermont Campus

AGENDA

- 8:30-9:00 am Registration – Refreshments – Poster Set-Up
- 9:00 am Welcome and Introductory Remarks
Sean Lawson, Vermont Monitoring Cooperative
- 9:20 am Assessing Indicators of Healthy Forests: a web-based application to provide statewide information to natural resource professionals
Sandy Wilmot, Vermont Department of Forests, Parks and Recreation
Phil Girton, Consultant
- 10:05 am Long-Term Ecosystem Monitoring Project on Green Mountain National Forest
Brian Keel, USDA Green Mountain National Forest
Diane Burbank, USDA Green Mountain National Forest
- 10:40 am Break - Refreshments and Snacks – Poster Viewing
- 11:00 am Climate Change Effects on New England Spruce-Fir Forests: evidence from the past, implications for the future.
Matthew Landis, Middlebury College
- 11:35 am Putting Forest Health Monitoring in its Place - The Vermont Long-term Forest Soil Monitoring Project.
Thomas Villars, USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service
- 12:05 pm Amphibian and Reptile Monitoring at Mt. Mansfield and throughout Vermont
Jim Andrews, Middlebury College
- 12:35 pm Lunch and poster session
- 1:30 pm Benefits of Adding Physiological Measurements to Long-Term Monitoring Efforts: red spruce and sugar maple as examples.
Paul Schaberg, USDA Northeast Forest Experiment Station & University of Vermont
Gary Hawley, University of Vermont, RSENr
- 2:05 pm Influence of Nutrition and Stress on Sugar Maple at a Regional Scale
Scott Bailey, USDA Forest Service, Northern Research Station
- 2:30 pm Break
- 2:45 pm Inventory and Monitoring Forest Invasive Species with Airborne Remote Sensing: Honeysuckle in the Taconics.
Robert Turner, Consulting Forester, R.J. Turner Company
- 3:20 pm Preliminary Results of the 2005 Vermont Acid Lake Biomonitoring Program
Heather Pembroke, Vermont Department of Environmental Conservation
- 3:55 pm Closing Remarks - Sean Lawson, Vermont Monitoring Cooperative
- 4:00 pm END